

Scripps National Spelling Bee returns this summer

Finals to be held July 8 at ESPN Wide World of Sports Complex near Orlando

Feb. 22, 2021

CINCINNATI – The Scripps National Spelling Bee returns this year with top spellers from across the U.S. and the globe gathering near Orlando, Florida, on July 8 to compete in the nationally televised event.

The final rounds of this year's Bee will be hosted in person at ESPN Wide World of Sports Complex at Walt Disney World Resort. The finals, featuring 10-12 accomplished spellers, will be broadcast live in primetime on ESPN2.

The 10 to 12 finalists who will travel to the Orlando area will have earned the right to compete in the finals by advancing through three levels of competition: the preliminary, quarterfinal and semifinal segments. In past years, those three rounds were held over one week – Bee Week. This year, due to the global pandemic, the preliminaries, quarterfinals and semifinals will be held virtually in the weeks leading up to the July 8 finals and will be broadcast live on ESPN platforms. The semifinals are slated for June 27, and dates for the earlier virtual rounds of the competition will be announced this spring.

“Since its beginnings nearly 100 years ago, the Scripps National Spelling Bee and its spellers have inspired audiences across the globe with a compelling combination of academic excellence and engaging entertainment,” said Adam Symson, president and chief executive officer of The E.W. Scripps Company. “Now, as the world continues to adapt to an ongoing pandemic, Scripps is committed to reimagining the beloved competition in a way that safely allows our exceptional spellers to continue this iconic tradition on the national stage.”

The decision to limit the in-person portion of the competition to no more than 12 spellers was made in consideration of the health and safety of participants, their families and everyone involved in the event's production as the country continues to combat the COVID-19 pandemic. The in-person portion of the competition at ESPN Wide World of Sports Complex at Disney will follow protocols based on guidance from health authorities, including the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, for social distancing and masking.

Scripps also is reviewing its COVID-19-related health and safety protocol with medical experts at Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center to help facilitate a safe experience for all. Leading up to the virtual and in-person final rounds of this year's bee, spellers are competing in school, community, regional and statewide spelling bees that will qualify them to participate in the national competition. Across the country, local bee sponsors are partnering with the Scripps

National Spelling Bee to crown local spelling champions who will be eligible to advance to the national level.

Qualifying school and local bees, which are administered by independent sponsors in partnership with the Scripps National Spelling Bee, are underway now and will be completed by early April. Due to the ongoing public health crisis and resulting mix of home learning and in-person school environments, administrators of local and school bees are hosting competitions in a variety of ways. In-person bees are being held as appropriate based on local public health guidelines. Many local bee programs have chosen to hold virtual competitions. In addition, the Scripps National Spelling Bee has developed and distributed an online testing tool that partner schools and local sponsors can use to declare school and local champions if they determine that it's not viable to host in-person or virtual bee events.

The Bee's RSVBee invitational program that was available for spellers in highly competitive or unsponsored local markets during the 2018 and 2019 bees will again be on hiatus for 2021 due to the programming adaptations of this year's bee.
